To the Judge.—While Patrick Gillan took the knife out of the prisoner's hand I beid him, and when Gillan got the knife I let him go, and then struck him with my fists.

Patrick Gillan, corroborated that portion of the last witness's testimony respecting his wresting the knife from Wall while Michael Garvey held him down on a barret; he was struggling with Garvey at the time; when he took the knife from Wall he had it presented within two inches of Garvey's side; I put the knife in my pocket and gave it to Mr. Conian, at the station house; I did not put any mark on it, but it is like the one produced; I considered the prisoner was sober at the time he was taken to the station house; I was struggling with him for two minutes before I got the knife out of his hand; while I was struggling to take it from him, I heard him (prisoner) say to Casey, "I'll take your life;" I saw a wound on the decreased's left breast.

Cross-examined by Mr. Clinton—Did not notice liquor on either the deceased or the prisoner.

James Gonlan, one of the Sixth ward police, deposed to his having arrested the prisoner at $2 Centre street; the knife was given to witness by Gillan, and he gave it to the Coroner; (identifies the knife produced;) Casey walked to the station house that night; from there he was taken to the hospital.

Sarah Murdack deposed that she lived at Mr. Campbell's, $2 Centre street, as a domestic; saw prisoner there that night; saw him stab Casey twice; Casey was standing at the bar; when prisoner came in he asked Casey to treat him; Casey slapped prisoner in the face; after that I went into the back roun, to draw water from a boiler which was on the stove; it was a pint measure; I drew it about haif full, and on my return with the water I saw the prisoner stab the deceased twice.

Charles Cannon, brother-in-law of deceased, deposed that he is a shoemaker; deceased was a shoemaker also; he worked with me in the basement, $2 Centre street; I have seen him and the prisoner together; Wall had been with Casey in my basement about two weeks before the stabbing; he was there several times.

The District Attorney said that that was all he had to ask this witnes, whose evidence was merely to show that the deceased and the prisoner were acquainted previous to the transaction.

AFTERNOON SUSSION.

On the re-assembling of the Court, Dr. Lent was called and examined by the District Attorney. He said:—I am physician to the New York Hospital; I recollect the deceased being brought there on the night of the 17th March last. I did not see him until next morning; Dr. Allen dressed his wounds; Dr. Allen is now out of the city: I found the deceased in a state of excitement; he seemed to me recovering from a fit of intoxication; he was in a bethargic condition, and did not appear disposed to answer questions; I examined the wound, and took of the dressings, because there had been hemorrhage; the first wound over the left nipple was very slight, about three quarters of an inch deep. I found the lower wound had been bleeding, and judged it necessary to take up seemed the vessels; in order to the these it was necessary to enlarge the wound; this was done with a knife, and the vessels were tied; the wounds were dressed, and afterwards the patient appeared quite counfortable; the finger could be put in the wound which pointed downward towards the seventh rib; when I enlarged the wound it was at the surface; he died on the night of the 22d, or early on the morning of the 24th of March; I made a pest mories examination; I found two wounds, and that blood had been effused in the fissure which connects the skin with the deeper parts; on opening the cavity of the belly, it was found that the wound had penetrated the abdomen, without wounding the intestines; extensive inflammation had set in; on opening the intention coat of the stomesh, there was an appearance as if it had been bruised by a blow; I attributed the death of the deceased to the wound and the inflammation; the wound led to the inflammation, so that the wound was crually the cause of the death.

On cross-examination, the doctor said that the deceased had delirium iromens previous to his death, while interment with which the wound was inflicted, the knife produced would be likely to inflict the wounds

knife produced would be likely to infilet the wounds

District Attorney-The wounds would be likely to cause delirium tremens in a person pre-disposed by intemperate habits; the wound in the abdomen must have been given with a hard blow.

To Mr. Dustin—I think that a healthy man, with a good constitution, would have had a fair chance of recovery; delirium having set in, the treatment which would have been otherwise resorted to could not be adopted.

would have been otherwise resorted to could not be adopted.

Mr Dustin opened the case for the defence, and stated that the prisoner was truly an unfortunate man. About nine years ago be came to this country, and, in a short time afterwards, he married a weman who was subrequently acduced from him, and is now living in a state of adultery with another man. He was thus left by her, with two children; and, not having any one to care for them, they were permitted to roam about the streets, and one of them was run over by a butcher's cart and killed. All there circumstances so preyed upon him, that he was defined to intemperance; but, otherwise, they bolieved he was a man of good character. Counsel then stated that deceased, after striking the prisoner in the face—a blow which was not, as had been stated, a mere slap, but one backers and the prisoner seized a knife, and, being at the time intoxicated, infliented the wounds on the deceased. Some witness were examined for the defence, but their testiment did not disprove the material facts address the presentation.

their teatmony did not disprove the material facts as-direct for the presecution.

Dr. Covill, Physician of the City Prison, deposed that he saw the prisoner when he was brought to the Tranks, he appeared as if he had been on a spree; he had been, before that, frequently in custody for intoxi-cation, and was called "a tive-days man;" he had a black eye when brought to prison for this officers, and his eye is still red from the offects of the block; it much have been a pretty screen blow; the prisoner was subject to epilepsy, and there is, more or less, a disease of the brain conse-vent epilepsy.

The caratral scene is a grand feature, it is greatly improved—new additionations the newest from beginning to end, and far eclipsing all similar productions. The Bassery theatre being, we believe the largest of any in the Union, so far at least as the depth of the stage is concerned, has more advantages in sarrying out the demonstrations of the author, in the effective and brillent display of this grand production, but atthough those features are exceedingly attractive, and that hose features are exceedingly attractive, and that is, that the receipts are for the benefit of a good man, an honest and long tried attack, who is respected by every one, and hated by none—Mr. I. We are little surprised at this, from the great piender of the piece. Everything that can be desired is embrased in it. The most lovely ferrostrial views are seen, representing nature in great truthfulness, in rural landscapes, beautiful rivers, moonlight views, palaces of the most epiendid architectural science, and inhabitants richly attired in the coatumes of the age. From these very desightful prospects, the observer, while his mind is contemplating the beautiful touches of the artist, is aroused by being translated, as it were, to other spheres, beholding the descring and brilliant seems of releated realms. The machinery is so ship worked, and the secury of transcendantly beautiful, that it has

The ballet corps is composed of upwards of sixty persons, and the scenery and dresses are beautiful. There is very little doubt but that Niblo's, this evening, will be crammed in cery department, and that Caroline will receive the most enthusiastic reception.

Bearon's Thearen.—Where can one while away an evening with more pleasure than within the walls of this famous Thespitan temple? If immense audiences, who seem in exclude luring the cattire performances, be taken as an index, the answer is, no where. MONEY MARKET. Monday, April 28-6 P. M.

There is nothing new in the stock market. Quotation for most of the fancies fell off to-day, and there appears to be little disposition to speculate. An immense amount of stock is held in the street, and the principal operators are members of the board of brokers. Some houses in the street hold several thousand shares of several of the leading railroad fancies, on hypothecation. Nearly one half of the whole capital stock of Rending is held in this city, but a portion of it is on account of parties residing in Boston and Philadelphia. It is, perhaps, fortunate that this dead weight does not fall entirely upon our shoulders, for the probability of any improvement in the market value of the stock is at this moment poor indeed. Difficulties between the two companies connected with the transportation of coalfrom the Schuvlkill region, are likely to increase, and the result will, without doubt, be disastrous to all porties except consumers of coal It is said that more than one hundred thousand tons of coal have accumulated at Richmond, and very few vessels to take it away. Morris Canal is steadily settling down to prices current about two years since. There appears to be very little chance of getting up any excitement in the stock. The injunction is still in full force, and the company have about abandoned all hope of getting it removed. Edgeworth and Portsmouth are both improving. Eric Railroad has probably reached its maximum. The effect of the opening of the road through, upon the price of the stock, has been anticipated, and purchasers have doubtless been much disappointed. Harlem and Norwich are firm at our quotations. Prices for these stocks may not go up much at present, but it is pretty certain they will not fall off. They are well held, and in strong hands. A few shares of Long Island change hands daily, but prices do not vary much. Canton and Farmers' Loan are operat ed in from day to-day, by the same parties, and it oppears repressible to draw in outside speculators.

There has been an active demand for foreign exchange for remittance by the steamer leaving Boston for Liverpool on Wednesday. The exports from Baltimore to foreign ports during the week ending on Thursday hast were quite heavy, amounting, in the aggregate, to $174,001 37. The shipments of flour reached upwards of 10,000 barrels. Of to-

The acting Secretary of the Treasury, in answer to letters making inquiries on the subject of the payment of the Mexican claims recently awarded by the Board of Commissioners sitting in Washington, has published a letter in the papers of that city, in which he gives all the information desired. He says that the law explicitly declares that all amounts in litigation must remain in the Treasury until there has been a final legal decision, and the Department does not feel authorized to make any payment in such cases even to a trustee who might be appointed by all the parties claiming an interest. In cases where there is no litigation, the amount of the awards can only be paid to the parties in whose names they are respectively made, or to their duly appointed attorneys. He further informs claimants that all payments will be made in cash, as the situation of the Treasury does not at present render it necessary for the De-partment to resort to an issue of five per cent stock, which the law of Congress authorized it to create for the purpose of making these payments; and that stock will therefore not be issued unless the future necessities of the Treasury should require it. No payment will, in any case, be made until thirty days after the Board of Commissioners closed their awards, which was on the leth inst.

The receipts at the office of the Assistant Treasurer of this port, to-day, amounted to $111,403.98; payments $110,521.54—balance, $4,065, 321.25.

The an-nexed statement, exhibiting the commerce of the islands, we extract from the Pokynesian, for the purpose of show-ing the progress made from one year to another. The discovery of gold in California, and the impetus given to the movements of commerce in the Pacific, no doubt tended very materially to benefit the commercial classes of Honolulu and Lahaina; but it is our impression that in less than five years, the commerce of these ports will be greatly in excess of anything ever yet realised. When lines of steamers between San Francisco and Canton and other East India ports, are established, the Sand wich Islands will become an important stopping place for obtaining coal and fresh provisions.
